ENVIRONMENT & CLIMATE CHANGE REPORTER	SACRAMENTO
The ideal candidate will have a passion for covering environment news. Some weeks, you may be out in communities looking at how extreme wildfires dramatically affect everything from topography to livelihoods. Other days, you may be reporting on energy and transportation at the state Capitol, speaking with lawmakers and exploring how politics and climate change collide. The ideal candidate will be comfortable reporting for a variety of platforms: shining as an audio journalist, quick with words and smarts on our talk programs and podcasts, and adept at producing content for digital.
How to Apply: So, you're going to apply? Great! Here are the steps:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• We don't want a cover letter! Instead, share how your journalism experience applies to reporting related on climate change and environmental justice issues. How would reporting on class, race and geography intersect with this beat? Maybe pitch us a story? Please keep your ideas or pitch less than 150 words.</li> <li>• A one-page resume.</li> <li>• Share three links to examples of your best journalism, and be sure to include digital work.</li> <li>• Tell us about one of your favorite podcast programs and websites (less than 100 words).</li> <li>• Please submit all documents in PDF format</li> </ul>
Email your application to careers@capradio.org. You can address your cover letter to the hiring manager for this position, Nick Miller (he/him), Managing Editor of News &amp; Information.

MORNING CLASSICAL HOST & CONTENT PRODUCER	SACRAMENTO (TEMPORARILY REMOTE)
We're looking for a host with a warm and inviting on-air presence who engages loyal listeners and attracts curious new ones. Our morning host will have a strong classical music background as well as an appreciation for other forms of music and popular culture. The host who CapRadio listeners will wake up with each morning will also have strong writing skills, experience as an interviewer and facility in audio production. Our new host and producer join a highly motivated team of creative people who are re-defining what it means to be a classical music service in the 21st Century, working across the terrestrial, digital, and live event spaces to engage with audiences on whatever platform they use. If this description resonates with you, read on for more details about the job. Then put together your materials and send us your application. We can't wait to welcome the newest member of the CapRadio Music Team!
How to Apply: So, you're going to apply? Great! Here are the steps: Please submit a brief cover letter, resume, and audio samples of your work to: careers@capradio.org.
If you have prior radio experience, your audio samples should include airchecks from your previous job(s). If you don't have radio experience, make a recording as you imagine yourself on the air, presenting classical music. Record 3 to 4 mock breaks on your phone or on a digital device and include the audio file with your materials. (hint: check out other classical announcers on the radio for ideas on what to include in your mock breaks)
