Subject: Library Blog - Volunteer to Update

Hi...

I am an avid supporter of the Chico Library and have been trying to figure out a way to volunteer with my busy and somewhat erratic schedule. Today, I was checking for this month's events and saw the link to the library blog (which I did not exist prior to today) and saw that the last post there was for a movie shown in July (which my daughter and I attended by the way). I follow Orland Free Library's blog online and think that Chico's library would benefit from having an active blog online for community members to follow.

I recently finished helping Chico Mothers' Club get their Wordpress website and blog set up, including forms and payment systems, etc. and would love to help out with the Chico Library blog if that is something the Board think would be beneficial. I think it would be a great place to post events, book reviews, newly available books, movies, etc. One of the things I love about the library is the variety of events that always are happening, from kids to adults. I think having an active presence on the internet in the form of a blog would really benefit the public and hopefully get more people attending events at the library and using the library.

Thanks for your consideration,
Sue
